DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-20 have been examined. Application 10/646,189 has a filing date 08/21/2003 and is a continuation of 09/481,778 (Pat 6,615,179; 01/11/00) which is a continuation in part of 09/241,937 (Pat 6,347,301; 02/02/99).

Response to Interview Summary Action

2. Applicant's arguments, filed 03/15/2005, with respect to the statutory double patenting rejection(s) of claim(s) 1-20 under McNicol (US 6,615,179) have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, an Election/Restriction action has been applied to the Application.

Election/Restrictions

3. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
- I. Claims 1-9 drawn to awarding points and coupons to consumers in a point of sale environment, classified in class 705, subclass 14.
 - II. Claims 10-17 and 19 drawn to a method for distributing flight data to a traveler using handheld devices, classified in class 235, subclass 472.
 - III. Claim 18 drawn to a method for providing electronic concierge service to a hotel guest, classified in class 705, subclass 5,6.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions of group I and II-III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I has separate utility such as awarding points to consumers. This separate use distinguishes the invention of group I from group II and III since the awarding of points is not limitation of those independently claimed invention. Therefore, the invention of group I is separately useable subcombination. See MPEP §806.05(d).

Inventions II and I, III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention II has separate utility such as distributing flight data to a traveler. This separate use distinguishes the invention of group II from group I and III since the distributing flight data to a traveler is not limitation of those independently claimed invention. Therefore, the invention of group II is separately useable subcombination. See MPEP §806.05(d).

Inventions III and I-II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention III has separate utility such as providing electronic concierge service to a hotel guest. This separate use distinguishes the invention of group III from group I and II since the providing electronic concierge service to a hotel guest is not limitation of those independently claimed invention. Therefore, the invention of group III is separately useable subcombination. See MPEP §806.05(d).

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
